PRETTY PRIZE OUTING COSTUME.

A Sketch and Description of It—Fashions, Fads and Fancies—Household Receipts and Hints for Society Belles—Gossip About Womanhood, Suggestions of More or Less Value.

HE New York Herald recently offered a prize of $50 for a design for the most serviceable, graceful and comfortable outing costume, and last Sunday the contest was decided. There were hundreds of competitors, but the drawing and description which won the prize was the work of Miss Eugene Boyd Henderson, of Norfolk, Va. The illustration herewith reproduces the prize design. The cut is a reproduction of a half page illustration in the Herald. Of the winner the Herald says: Miss Henderson will be remembered by many readers of the Herald as the winner of the prize in the Easter hat contest, and the publication at the time of her beautiful conception of a spring hat, which was her first attempt at drawing, will be also remembered. Miss Henderson has earned a reputation in her own state and so neighboring as an amateur artist of great promise. Her chosen work was water color and oil painting, but a year of bedridden invalidism has forced her to be reconciled to the prospect of never wielding the brush again, and helpless to a great extent, unable to rise from her pillow or to use her arms freely, she has taken great interest and pleasure in thinking out tasteful and original productions for the Herald's contest.

The committee was composed of Mr. F. S. Church, the artist; Redfern, the woman's tailor, and Miss Mary Bissland, editor of The American Woman, a magazine devoted to the interests of women. The drawings were gone over carefully, sifted down and down till it remained to decide between two only; then the ground was gone over carefully again, and the decision was in Miss Henderson's favor. Here is her gown as she describes it:

MISS HENDERSON'S DESCRIPTION.
"This outing costume combines the picturesque and becoming with the useful. It is also meritorious in the respect that it aims to be essentially quiet and refined, therefore ladylike. There is nothing bizarre or conspicuous in color or combination.

"The material is golden brown storm serge—impervious alike to rain and dust. The pointed jacket closely follows the curves of the figure, yet the fit is comfortable and easy. The revers and cavalier cuffs are of heavy black silk and are outlined with narrow gilt braid, which gives a novel effect to the whole gown. There is also a band of black silk braid with narrow gilt braid on each side following the curves of the jacket. A similar braid, much broader, also outlined by gilt braid, trims the skirt, which is quite full and escapes the ground.

"The waist is black silk, with double cascade down the front. The vest is of storm serge, fastened with small brass buttons.

"When my lady desires to look particularly chic and natty she dons the vest; when she desires more freedom of motion she discards the vest and wears a wrinkled silk gilet with waist and jacket, or she may omit the jacket also, and wear only a silk or laundried shirt with the skirt.

"The sailor hat is of golden brown straw, having a wide gilt band over which is one of black little narrower to show an edge of gilt at the edges. There are two black quills stuck coquetishly on one side of the hat. The umbrella is of brown silk.

"Brown suede gloves, stitched and netted with black, and Russia leather (tan) half shoes complete a costume which is equally suitable for shopping, boating, seaside or mountains.

"It could also be successfully developed in white duck, with brass buttons, or in white flannel, with dark blue cuffs, revers, shirt and band on skirt, with gilt braid and brass buttons."

Go-to-Bed Stories.

"Sit down by your little one's bed and speak low and evenly," said a tender-hearted mother. "Weave a fanciful but quiet story that tells of pretty fairies and birds and flowers and drowsing bees and loving little boys and girls—these who sleep to the weary but active brain, not with the suffocating pressure of the gathering storm lit with lurid flashes, but with the soft clouds of the sunset horizon that change from rosy pink to tender, enveloping gray, and gradually deepen into restful gloom."

Saving the Berry's Aroma.

The aroma of the strawberry is largely lost in cooking, and it should be used fresh wherever it is possible to do so. In preserving it is essential to success to can the fruit when luscious and fresh from the bed and to use a variety of berry that is of rich flavor. The Wiesbaden preservers, who are more successful with strawberries than any one else, do not allow their berries to cook more than a moment. They fill the cans with the fresh fruit, and set them in a large kettle containing water just hot enough to bear the hand. There should be a wooden rack in the bottom of the boiler, and cloth should be packed around the jars to prevent their touching each other. When they begin to boil the German preservers watch them, and as soon as the berries rise to the mouth of the jar they take them out and cover them with a rich, cold syrup. By this means the plump appearance of the berry as well as its flavor is preserved.

Bridesmaids.

One of the newest ideas for carrying flowers for bridesmaids are the green wickerwork watering pots, filled with lilies of the valley or any other bloom suitable to the dresses. They have this advantage, that they are so placed they appear as if they were growing, and the handles of the watering pots are tied with colored ribbons. This is even prettier than the high-heeled shoes, filled with flowers, which used to be slung from the arm. Other novelties are ribbon chateaus with small bouquets hanging from the ends of ribbon and bristling of flowers to correspond.

The Mrs. Gilroy of London.

At the recent ball at the Mansion House in London the lady mayors were a very becoming gown of pearly white satin, with a folded berthe and short puffed sleeves of lizard green velvet, which appeared again as a narrow border round the hem of the skirt, and she carried a bouquet of white flowers.

A Spanish Woman Novelist.

Under the title of "The First Woman of Spain," Sylvester Baxter, of the Cosmopolitan, tells the story of E. Podro Bazar, the novelist, which is rather romantic. As a child she steals Hugo and reads him with avidity. But she reads philosophy also, was rather isolated and dreamy, but married at the age of sixteen. Her first literary efforts were articles and poems. But coming upon the works of Valera and Alarcón, contemporary novelists, she was struck with their resemblance to Cervantes and his fellows, the same likeness that exists between an ancestral portrait and that of a descendant in the costume of to-day. "If fiction resolves itself into describing places and customs familiar to us and characters that we can study in the people about us, then I can venture into the field myself," she thought. And so she did.

Complexion Lotion.

The lotion for whitening the complexion is made of the following ingredients: Tincture of camphor, one ounce; tincture of benzoin, one-half ounce; cologne water, two ounces. The whole mixture may be placed in the ordinary bath, but a little of it in the water used for the face, neck and hands will soften and whiten the skin wonderfully.

Water.

Plenty of water drinking will prove beneficial, aiding in the process of production and in this way helping in the free working of natural laws. If you arise weak and languid in the morning take a full tumbler of water before retiring and see if there will not come a brighter and better feeling with the awakening day. The reason for this is that the tissues are made fresher and stronger by their bath, and are thus able to cope with the active work of the next twenty-four hours.

The hot water cure laughed at by many is indeed a wondrous health producer and pain eliminator. A hot bath on going to bed, even in the summer, is a better remedy for insomnia than many drugs. Inflamed parts will subside under applications of hot water, and very hot water proves an effective check to bleeding. No matter how much out of order the stomach may be, it will generally receive and retain a glassful of very hot water. Whether taken externally or internally, water is a health ally whose efficacy is most amply proven after an honest trial.

Eutro-Wheat Gems.

Two cups of entire-wheat flour, one cup of cold water, one-half cup of milk. Beat slightly and fill gem pans, which should be small, deep and very hot. Bake half an hour in a very hot oven, the first fifteen minutes on the grate and the remainder of the time on the bottom of the oven.

Mindy's Toilet.

Madame now has her bath room fitted in white, although she cannot conveniently indulge in expensive French tiling. She buys the French tile-paper instead, and it is a most attractive imitation. This paper is of very fine texture, with an exquisite enamel, and is $1.50 a roll. Like all French papers, the rolls include several more yards than those of domestic manufacture.

In these bath rooms the wainscoting is of white enameled wood and extends half way up the wall. The remainder is finished with the tile-paper. The ceiling is finished with the enamel paper. The ceiling paper may be of the sort that shows a cracked glass, such as Oriental porcelain.

The window is finished with white cracked glass set in a leaded pattern. The chair is enameled in white, both frame and cane seat. The rods of the towel rack are also done in white enamel.

Such a bathroom is easily kept clean, being of a polished surface. If desired, it is good taste to varnish the paper.

Bannan Cream Pudding.

Melt one cupful of sugar in one pint of hot milk. Mix two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch with cold milk, stir it into the milk and cook fifteen minutes. Add two tablespoonfuls of butter. Beat the whites of three eggs stiff, stir into the thickened milk and cook again for five minutes.

Crankisms.

Ever since the Garden of Eden, whenever anything goes wrong, says Kate Field, there is always a man around to lay the blame on the woman.

The testimony of one man as ignorant as ourselves is sufficient to persuade us of the wisdom of that which we wish to do, but not the opinion of ten more wiser than we can weigh in the balance against our inclinations.

As to husbands, if we can succeed in practicing a certain amount of self-deception concerning them, they are very bearable creatures; but one who has the habit of investigating her own illusions must sooner or later discover that woman is not angelic enough to endure man.

The Mother-in-Law.

The much-talked-about mother-in-law occasionally has a bit of testimony offered in her favor. For instance, the Canton, Ohio, man who eloped with Mrs. John Gilson took her mother along, which he would hardly have done had she been as bad as the newspaper wits and funny men on the stage represent mother-in-law to be.

Helen Keller.

Helen Keller, the deaf, dumb and blind child, was recently a centre of attraction at a lawn party. She sat on an embankment with her teacher, Miss Sullivan, who with almost incredible speed interpreted upon the hand of her charge whatever was said to her. Helen is now thirteen years old, very large for her age, and, except for one of her eyes, which is abnormally prominent, blurred and frequently rolling in its socket, would be a pretty girl. She has curling brown hair, a clear, ruddy complexion and regular features. Her hands, which serve for ears, eyes and vocal organs, are very white and well formed. She occasionally speaks a short sentence in a peculiar monotone with perceptible pauses between the words. She has learned to do this by carefully feeling the lips and throat of her teacher when pronouncing certain words. It is difficult for a person in full possession of his senses to conceive of the patience this must require. Her expression is remarkably happy, and her teacher says she enjoys all childish pleasures with the zest of her age. Her leading and most vital characteristic is her glowing spirit of hopefulness. Her temperament is one of perpetual sunshine.

Broiled Spanish Macarol.

Clean thoroughly, split down the back, and remove the back bone. Broil over a clear fire, on a well-greased wire broiler, for ten minutes, flesh side down, then turn for one minute on the skin side. Remove to a hot platter. Season with salt, pepper and butter, or with maitre d'hotel butter, and garnish with parsley. Make the maitre d'hotel butter by creaming one tablespoonful of butter in a bowl, and adding slowly one tablespoonful of lemon juice, half a teaspoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful of pepper, and one teaspoonful of finely chopped parsley.

Brunettes and Blondes.

The brunette type is becoming more numerous in England and on the continent. This is said now for the blonde. Mr. Gladstone, who observes most things, said some years ago that light-haired people were far less numerous than in his youth. The statement was borne out by the result of the statistical inquiry undertaken by Dr. Beddoe, who examined 726 women and found that 369 were brunettes and 357 blondes. Carrying the inquiry a step further Dr. Beddoe learned that 7.35 per cent of the brunettes had husbands, while only 6.3 per cent of the blondes were married. From this it appears that in England a brunette has ten chances of being wedded to the nine chances of the blonde, and Dr. Beddoe went on to argue that "the English are becoming darker because the men persist in selecting the dark-haired women as wives." The same thing is happening in Germany, in France, in Switzerland and elsewhere on the continent.

Sunshine Cake.

Sift one cup of flour with one teaspoonful of cream of tartar five times. Sift one and one-half cups of granulated sugar twice. Beat the sugar with the beaten yolks of four eggs until very light and creamy. Beat the whites of eleven eggs to a stiff, dry froth. Add the yolks and sugar to the whites very carefully, then add one teaspoonful of vanilla, and last the flour. Mix thoroughly, but as gently and quickly as possible. Turn into an ungreased angel's food tin and bake forty-five minutes in a moderate oven.

A Pretty Sofa Cushion.

A handsome and serviceable sofa cushion is made of delima, the lighter shade for one side, the darker for the other. The former is then worked with dark blue, with a thread of gilt for a conventional leaf pattern. A narrow ruffle of silk in the same shade edges and completes the whole.

Some New Fancies.

Turkish toweling in pure white is considered the most correct thing for the covering of chairs and couches in the summer sitting-room.

Jaunty military capes will be made up on suite with many of the prettiest costumes for misses and girls.

The ring handkerchief holder is coming into vogue.

The latest fancy in the way of a feminine shirt button is a diamond set in platinum.

Ignorant Celebration of the Fourth of July.

Julia Ward Howe, in the July Forum.

The fact that our heroes fought for freedom against almost hopeless odds should be brought to mind, and their names should be hallowed in perpetual remembrance. But if we would crown their conquest, we must give more attention to the good for which they died than to the mere circumstance of their death. The ordinary procedure of mankind is quite the opposite of this. They are proud of the military success, careless of the civic and ethical gain. Even the Christian church accentuates too much the death of its Founder, is too little concerned with the truth for which he really gave his life. A Lent of prayer and fasting, with dramatic repetition of the betrayal and crucifixion of the Blessed One, may merely bring with it suggestions of devotion and gratitude. But far more important would be a Lent of study of the deep meaning of his words and works. It makes one sick at heart to think of the formal rehearsal of great events by those who have no understanding of their true significance, and can therefore claim but a small part in their real benefit.

AN INDIGNANT COMMISSIONER.

He is Insulted by a Columbian Guard and Closes the Paraguay Forest Exhibit.

World's Fair Grounds, Chicago, June 28.—Commissioner Hassler, of Paraguay, has closed that country's exhibit in the agricultural forestry buildings because of an insult he received at the hands of a Columbian guard. Pending an adjustment of the difficulty the exhibits will be closed. A few days ago Commissioner Hassler, who was installing an exhibit in the anthropological building, told an assistant to take a piece of bunting to another building and have it made into a covering. The guard at the entrance, following the orders of Prof. Putnam, refused to allow the man to take the bunting from the building, whereupon Commissioner Hassler took the package and attempted to leave the building. He told the guard he was a foreign commissioner, but that did not alter the guard's position, and he grabbed the hot-headed Paraguayan by the shoulders and was knocked down for his trouble. Other guards came to the rescue.

Commissioner Hassler immediately wrote to Mr. Kearns, chief of foreign affairs, asking that the guard be released from duty. This was not done, and as no reparation has been made for the insult Commissioner Hassler coolly closed Paraguay's exhibit. The position officials disclaim any knowledge of the affair, and Colonel Rice, commander of the guards, said that he had no official notification to remove the offending guard. Prof. Putnam said that the guards at the anthropological building were instructed not to allow packages to be removed, but that the officer was supposed to display some common sense regarding the matter. Commissioner Hassler was very wrathful when seen this afternoon and vowe the covers shall remain over Paraguay's exhibits until the matter is settled.

Christian Ministers and Modern Science.

Dr. Lyman Abbott, in the July Forum.

The scientific thought of the present age is as truly constructed on this evolutionary theory of change by growth, as the astronomical thought is on the Copernican theory. It is useless for the ministry to roon preaching a catastrophic theology to an age which has adopted an evolutionary philosophy; and it is a great deal worse than useless for the ministry to identify religion with a catastrophic philosophy, and so incite the thoughtful men and women of the age to relegate religion with that philosophy to the lumber-room where old and cast-off furniture is kept. The minister who means to commend religion—that is the life of faith and hope and love—to his age, must have the same old message that God is in his world of nature and of men, redeeming, transforming, educating his children and bringing them into his own likeness; but the successful minister will clothe this message in the philosophic thought as well as in the language of his time.

$100 Reward, $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh, being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.
